

"BEST PUBLICATION"
2020

MOUNTAIN EXPRESS MAGAZINE

PARK CITY

20 WINTER
21 SPRING

Article by Mountain Express Magazine reporter: Amy Roberts

Just Around the Corner – A Few of Utah’s Top Destinations

For those of us who want to stay close to home this winter season, we are lucky to live in such a vast and exquisite state. Locals have always known that Utah offers a number of breathtaking destinations, bucket-list adventures and luxury retreats that provide an opportunity to scratch the travel itch instead of scratching vacation plans.

Zion Villa

No matter how many times you’ve “done Zion,” unless you’ve stayed at Zion Villa’s True North, you haven’t experienced the park’s true glory. One of the few residential homes located inside park boundaries, Zion Villa offers jaw-dropping 360-degree views of red rock monuments and over 10 acres of private sanctuary-like grounds where visitors can meditate, practice yoga, or meander through the walking labyrinth. No detail has been overlooked by owners Hank and Mariangela Landau—inside or out. You’ll also enjoy thoughtful touches like an expansive selection of books, instruments for composing music, patios with plenty of seating, a fire ring, wood-burning chiminea and a hot tub that offers majestic views of Zion’s Tabernacle Dome. There’s space for up to 12 people and just out the front door you can explore places you won’t find mentioned in a tourist brochure, including nearby caves with 6,000 year old petroglyphs. Hank’s gracious hosting is matched only by Buddha’s and Sabu’s—the two yellow labs who will welcome you to the property.

Book your stay at zionvilla.com